BOURBON WHISKEY derives its predominantly sweet flavor from its corn and toasty oak base. Bourbon becomes drier and more complex with age as the strong tannins from the new American Oak barrels integrate with the spirit.

RYE WHISKEY is generally spicy and full of flavor, typically leaning it towards the dry side with slightly less body than bourbon. Once distilled, rye must be aged in new white oak barrels, which add to its spiciness.

COGNAC holds the widest range of brown spirit flavors second only to single malt scotches. The palette ranges from light florals or slightly sweet fruit, to dry spices with hints of caramel, coco and baking spice. There are three primary marques in Cognac which require minimum time in oak: VS: 2yrs - VSOP: 4yrs - XO: 6yrs

AGED TEQUILA is a distilled alcohol made from the Agave Azul Tequilana Weber plant (Blue Weber Agave). Reposado is aged for 2 months to a year, while Anejo is over a year old and Extra Anejo ages three years and beyond. The tequila inherits unique flavors from barrels and ultimately becomes a balance of agave and wood characteristics, gaining additional sweetness and spice with age.
